Keep Cherrydale Library Open

About this petition

To the Arlington County Board:

We oppose the county manager's proposal in his FY2027 budget to close Cherrydale Library. The library is inexpensive, cost-effective, well managed, energy-efficient, structurally sound, architecturally beautiful, and deeply cherished by generations of north Arlingtonians. Closing it would destroy the soul of our community, just to save pennies. We urge you to reject the county manager's proposal.

Sponsor

The sponsor of this petition is Citizens for Cherrydale Library, a group of citizen volunteers seeking to promote and preserve our most important neighborhood institution. Contact us at suza1@comcast.net with any questions or visit our Web site at <http://www.cherrydalelibrary.org> .

Comments: This library is a wonderful part of our community and a critical gathering place for neighbors. Our three year old son, Oliver, visits this library every week. For neighborhood children this is wonderful opportunity to learn right here in the community, with in walking distance for all who use it without having to get in a car. Its closure would be a massive loss for our community and only create minimal savings that would have no real impact on the County's budget.

Comments: This is a valuable gathering space, a historic piece of architecture and a much loved resource for North Arlington. The Central Library, while close, lacks the community programming and spirit, as well as a haven, for youth in our neighborhoods -- young children as well as those at Dorothy Hamm. Also, saves gas and air pollution by being within walking distance to so many. Since Cherrydale does not have a community center, it is our community center. Cut back the hours if you need to, but don't close. How much are you really going to save at the expense of a resource that makes Arlingtonians happy?

Comments: As a resident of Cherrydale and a staff member at a neighborhood elementary school, I can attest to how often the community uses the Cherrydale library. Students speak of going there all the time, and the summer program is especially instrumental in keeping them engaged in reading when not in school. The library is also important to those in our community who do not have the means to purchase whatever book they want at a store or online. Arlington should be protecting any resource that directly benefits every member of our county - and, in particular, one that encourages people (especially our youngest) to read!

Comments: I get all my books on hold from Cherrydale as it's the closest to my home and the parking is much easier to find than at Central. When my daughter was at Dorothy Hamm middle school, she and her friends could hang out at the library after school so it is an important facility for much more than just getting books. Please do not close it--it's not worth saving a small amount of money for the tremendous loss it would be to the local community.

Ask ANY teacher about how current generations of school children are faring Libraries are the antidote - cheap, no negative side effects, only benefits. You cannot undo the lifelong impact of libraries on children (and adults).
There is no better money spent. (and cheap at that!).

Comments: This library is a vital resource to the surrounding neighborhoods, its closure would be a huge lose to information and educational resources, a key community space, access to Internet and printing, and a historic piece of the community. While there are other branches that offer the same services these are not accessible to many in the area - including tweens and teens who are able to get to this local branch on their own, and other residents who do not have the means of transportation or time to visit further branches.

Comments: I used this library as a child 40 years ago and my kids use it today, generally about once a week. It's safe for kids to access via bike and on foot if they live on the north side of Langston Blvd, which is not a safe road for anyone to cross really! Lots of people in the community use it for story hour, clubs and meetings, a warm place to go on a cold day, a school bus hub stop, and more. As a branch library, it's smaller and less intimidating than huge Central Library, which makes it friendlier for kids and families. Is it not worthwhile to keep it in our library system???

Comments: It is a shame that this is even being proposed when there are many other ways the county board can consider saving money. Taking away a historic landmark that is a cornerstone of our neighborhood isn't a "saving," it is indicative of subpar fiscal responsibility and tone deafness of what the community is actually voicing. I strongly urge the county board members to reconsider, and find alternative ways to save money -- perhaps by not pouring so much money in arbitrary traffic studies (e.g. Military & Nelly Custis).

It is important for anyone reading this to consider that the library isn't just a place to borrow books. It is a core memory place for impressionable children to understand the act of sharing, belonging and a meeting place to partake in story-time.

Do not close this library (or any library for that matter).

Comments: I moved to Arlington 33 years ago after my children were done with K-12. The three "free" things have I used the most in Arlington are the tennis courts, Madison Dog Park, and Cherrydale Library, and now, retired, I no longer use the tennis courts, and the dog has died. But I have willingly paid Arlington real estate taxes, supported the schools and parks, and volunteered for community service in return for the tennis courts, dog park, and the Cherrydale Library. Please let me have this small bit of Arlington. The Board routinely suggests closing the Cherrydale Library, noting that Central Library is only a mile away. But that's another mile to walk after walking 2 miles from North Arlington, and parking is getting more and more constrained at Central Library. Central Library is a wonderful resource, but a neighborhood library focused heavily on books and reading, it most definitely is not.

Comments: The small size of Cherrydale Library is part of what makes it preferable to the parents of young children over Central Library. Central Library and Cherrydale Library are not interchangeable. Cherrydale Library is an after-school resource for students at Dorothy Hamm Middle School, located just around the corner from the library. Our library offers free entertainment for kids and adults. It offers exhibit space for local artists and photographers. Please keep Cherrydale Library open!

Comments: The County proposal to close Cherrydale Library comes after years of proposals to do the same being rejected as being meritless. This is no different. Please stop degrading through penny-pinching what makes Arlington residential neighborhoods so special: High quality of life at an affordable cost to taxpayers.
- At a time when facts and culture are under attack, closing a library also sends a terrible message to the generation. Let's instead ensure that our legacy supports families, and helps keep our community intellectually curious and well informed. Keep Cherrydale Library open.

Comments: I do not accept the proposed closing of Cherrydale Library. It is a beautiful, historic, critical part of Arlington that serves its community on a shoestring budget. What message does it send to close a beloved, historic library branch in Arlington, Virginia? How does that reflect the values we so proudly espouse?

“Arlington will be a diverse and inclusive world-class urban community with secure, attractive residential and commercial neighborhoods where people unite to form a caring, learning, participating, sustainable community in which each person is important.”

— Arlington County Board

The county's vision perfectly describes the library. We must preserve, protect, and celebrate it.

Comments: This library has been part of my life for all seventeen years. I grew up visiting Cherrydale with my mom, learning to read on the second floor, joining summer reading programs, checking out hundreds of books, making countless trips, and even learning how to play chess there. Cherrydale is a true cornerstone of the community—a welcoming space where people of all ages can discover, rekindle, or deepen their love of reading.

It does not make sense financially yo save so little when the value yo the neighborhoods is so great. And the proximity to a middles school makes it easy for the students to use. In an age of dependence on phones having a sanctuary to Korean in is wonderful Comments: Cherrydale Library is a valuable and well utilized community resource. I personally use it almost weekly. If it is ok to shut down this community library then all other community libraries should be eliminated as well for the sake of equity and shared pain. The reality is the county shouldn't be looking to eliminate any libraries.

Cherrydale Library is a cost-effective neighborhood gem that fosters cohesion, ensures a safe space, and does so much more for the community. Memo to the County: Reading IS fundamental, as is the local library system. Want to cut the budget? Look elsewhere.

Comments: Please keep the library open. It is a wonderful place for Arlington families. Is the mother of five children we spent a lot of time at the library when they were you.ng. My children particularly enjoyed going to story hour in their pajamas. It helped to inspire them to be readers. When the kids got older, they would often get off the school bus at the library so they could do their homework in a quiet space.

It is things like this library (and the sports programs, for example, at Barcroft) that make Arlington such a desirable place to live. The county seems to be trying to get rid of the things that make Arlington so desirable. Instead of cutting these programs and facilities we should be investing in them and creating more. There's plenty of other waste that could be cut. How about the two-year project at Military Road and Nellie Custis. I would much rather have programs for the families then put all that money into a traffic circle. We could've just left the stop sign.

It is a loved part of the community where many elementary school students who live within walking distance go for magic shows or to read with their family. It's a great place for middle schoolers to go after school, only a block away, to study with their friends, and it promotes academic success. cherrydale library is an important part of our neighborhood, and it needs to say.

Comments: We are overwhelmingly tired of the county's misdirected efforts to cut very needed services for neighborhoods in favor of marginal (if that) notional gains. Those library is a safe haven for children attending the nearby middle school and using the bus stops. We've said it before and we'll say it again - stop threatening our safe spaces and commercializing everything that makes a community enjoyable.

Comments: Cherrydale library was one of the reasons we chose to live in Arlington!
Walking to the library with our children with our library tote was an integral part of growing up. They can now walk to the library on their own and appreciate a new perspective as they engage with the library and our community as young adults. It may seem small but Cherrydale library has always and will always have an enormous impact on our community. Now is certainly not the time to decrease access to knowledge through books or to decrease the sense of community. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Comments: Cherrydale Library is one of the better examples of successful Outreach by the Arlington Library System. Easy access and adequate parking allows patrons - especially older ones or those with young children - to check out books, dvds, and other materials quickly. It's presence also reflects fairness in the distribution of libraries within the County, putting 4 each in North and South Arlington. Lastly, if one of the goals of the library system is to encourage people to read and learn, then losing Cherrydale would do a great disservice to the community. Please keep it open.

Comments: The Cherrydale Library is not interchangeable with the Central Library. Cherrydale Library is a cultural heritage building and community hub that focuses on beloved community programs and is one of the few amenities serving North Arlington. With many additional housing units coming to this area soon, the Madison community center renovation closure, and given general disinformation in society, it does not seem civil to close this midcentury gem whose impact is far greater than its budgetary allocation.

For them, it was a place where curiosity was sparked and habits of learning were formed. It continues to be a resource I rely on regularly, not just for books, but a quiet space and center for community programming. Losing it would mean losing far more than a building; it would mean losing a vital piece of our neighborhood's foundation.

Comments: My family is a third Arlington generation family that has lived in the Donaldson Run/Cherrydale neighborhood since 1969 and enjoyed the many services this small community library offers. My parents took me here, I took my young children here and I continue to use the services as an adult with my grown children. We must protect this beautiful, treasured library. Cherrydale has been a source of many fine memories to not only my family but many in the community. I think 22207 can afford this. Please don't take our Cherrydale library away. It a critical resource for many in the community--let's not cut back on the reading and resources this gem provides to many learners in our community.

Comments: Libraries are essential, both for educational purposes and as community "third places." Cherrydale neighborhood needs access to a local library. It is absurd what items are being proposed as budget cuts this in such a prosperous county that supposedly has "values" that should support such institutions and the community-building they bring.

Comments: Save the Cherrydale Library.
It wont destroy the county to preserve a bit of history. Unlike Fire Station 8... Why not keep the property as is? You could make it a particular branch focused toward k-middle school activities and subjects. The library being sandwiched IN PROXIMAL WALKING DISTANCE of several schools and churches with educational programs. Let it be designed for that neighborhood's immediate need yet be open to all.
THAT is a solution of the respect with which people want their community treated by those in power to oversee, who probably do not reside there.

Comments: It's incredibly disappointing when our neighborhoods have to fight our own elected board to keep these vital community services-our branch libraries- alive. Cherrydale needs to stay open just as Glencarlin needs to stay open. Cost cutting shouldn't be cut from children and those who rely on libraries. It's reprehensible and I expect better from supposedly liberal board members. I'd expect this more from MAGA. Do better.

Closing it would be a tragedy for the residents of our neighborhood, especially for senior citizens like myself who value not only its many services but also because it's convenient walking distance from my home and an excellent source of daily exercise going to and from. The Cherrydale Library is one of the reasons we chose to buy our house in Arlington. Our children used the library and I continue to use this valued resource.

Comments: The Cherrydale Library is a focal point of the community, treasured by neighbors and visitors alike. It serves not only as a library, but also as a gathering place and a venue for local arts and community connection.

While I understand the county's budget challenges, closing this library would create a disproportionate loss in access and community value relative to the modest cost savings.

In an era when so much is becoming generic and online, preserving unique, walkable spaces like this is a high-value investment in the community. I strongly urge the county to keep the Cherrydale Library open.

Comments: This little gem is a wonderful library. Please don't close it!
I'll never forget the time last year when the librarian called me to ask if I had lost an old photo of two women in a specific book. She had found it in a book that had fallen off the shelf. She called the last person who had checked it out (me, several years before), and called me. The photo (of my now 88-year-old sister and my deceased mother) was precious to me, and I was so thankful for her caring so much, and making the effort to locate me.
Please don't close the library ... we love it!

I believe strongly that the Cherrydale Library fills an essential role as an anchor for a neighborhood that needs that public sense of place. Please don't shut down that community. It's over one hundred years in the making, but once gone it can't/wont be replaced. It's easy to tear down but much more difficult in time and money and community to rebuild. Thanks for your thoughtful consideration.

I suggest you take aim and line items of significance if you want to make a difference in the cost of running the county. The Cherrydale library is a cost effective and valuable service to the county's citizens.

Comments: I've been going to the Cherrydale library for over 50 years-- since I was a baby. I walked there solo as a free range little kid (back after I walked home from Woodmont, which lost the battle to stay open as a school). I picked up the spikey pods that fell off the once small, now large tree in front of the library. I took my own daughter to Cherrydale when she was little, and she spend many afternoons there after middle and high school.

I've attended events as well!

I could tell you all about the numbers, and you know them. Financially, this isn't the big cost savings. This is robbing people of all financial means of a resource that feels safe, secure, and inviting. In a historical time that involves exclusion and divisiveness, taking away a physical and emotional space that welcomes all feels like a huge mistake and backstep.

Comments: I've been a weekly patron of Cherrydale Library for almost 30 years. Most of the time I walk to the library and would be sad to not have a neighborhood spot where I know the staff. My children and I have fond memories of story time and browsing for books. They are adults now and library card holders in their respective cities. I am sure their love of a local library began at Cherrydale.

Comments: It's such a critical part of our neighborhood, allowing kids and parents to walk to a common space and have access to a universe of information and real human connections, family friendly activities and infinitely more. Losing it means more people in cars, less connection, less information, more isolation. The community will lose part of its soul.

Comments: Our neighborhood library is more than just a place for books—it's a vital community hub that provides free access to knowledge, technology, and educational resources for people of all ages. It supports students, job seekers, and families who rely on its programs and services, many of which are not easily accessible elsewhere. Losing the library would mean losing a safe, inclusive space that fosters learning, connection, and opportunity. Preserving it is an investment in our community's future and quality of life.

Comments: This is idiocy by a bureaucrat (s) who seek to dumb down Arlington County. To what ends?
Cherrydale Library is not only a historic & well loved asset for the community, but a natural hub & unique resource. The so-called County Manager seeks to destroy learning & knowledge for present and future generations in North Arlington and outlying people who also use this precious library. We need to build more libraries, not destroy existing ones. Why are they doing this?

Comments: Access to free books and educational materials for kids and adults is more important now than ever!!! Having easy access and a neighborhood library allows kids to access the library on their own by walking. A more educated community is a safer community, a happier community, and a successful community. We HAVE to protect libraries, as our current president is devaluing education and resources for kids nationally.

Comments: My family primarily uses Cherrydale Library, and we use it regularly, as we have since my children were toddlers. There is something special about a small library nestled in among the houses in a neighborhood. In the case of a modest expense like this, the community benefits outweigh the nominal value of the stated savings. This is the only library north of Langston Blvd; at 0.03 percent of the proposed budget, this feels like (another) malicious effort to shut off services north of Langston Blvd.

Having as widely spread a network of branch libraries as possible would seem to much better support all the aims for which we have libraries!

Comments: The mending circle that meets regularly on a weekly basis at Cherrydale library. We learn new ways to artistically mend. It is a strong community building program that seems to gather new members constantly while keeping the regulars still coming. It would be a shame to close Cherrydale library. Isn't that what libraries are for?....learning and community!

Comments: Libraries are cornerstones of our community, and Cherrydale is a gem for all ages; closing it would significantly change not only this part of Arlington but also speak to where our priorities are and are not. I believe the citizens of Arlington prioritize libraries for the many benefits they provide, which is why so many people are speaking out to keep Cherrydale open.

Comments: Cherrydale Library is part of the soul of our community. Adults and children alike gather here for activities and classes. We meet neighbors here and, of course, we have access to all that the county library has to offer in terms of reading and listening materials.

One of the highlights that my son and I both anticipate when he moves back into this community in June is being able to share Cerrydale with his own young sons, as I did with him.

My husband even wrote a children's story called - you guessed it - Cherrydale for our kids since it was such an important part of their lives growing up.

There aren't many places that serve to bring our community together. Won't you please leave Cherrydale Library open and help make our community a "caring, learning, participating, sustainable community in which each person is important."
